McDowell Rice Smith & Buchanan congratulates Greg Spies on being selected as a fellow of the Construction Lawyers Society of America for top construction lawyers. The Construction Lawyers Society of America is an invitation-only, selective and limited membership international association of the world's best construction lawyers. The composition of the CLSA is aggressively diverse, with recognition of deserving, experienced and highly qualified lawyers across all practices relating to the construction industry. Membership is limited to 1,200 practicing Fellows from the United States and internationally. The CLSA's selection process is a combination of Fellow input, internal research, nominations by Fellows, attorney opinions, evaluation of client selection of counsel, limited input from active and retired judges, and reviews of acknowledgement and recognition by other peer reviewing sources and associations.
